of frozen potato products, poultry and meat products in the Philippines

Raising pure pork pigs without the use of medicines, steroids, and other growth-promoting agents is a crucial step towards promoting sustainable and ethical pig farming practices. It not only results in healthier and more flavorful meat but also promotes better animal welfare and reduces the environmental impact of pig farming. By choosing to support farmers who prioritize natural and sustainable farming practices, we can contribute towards a healthier, more ethical, and more environmentally friendly food system for ourselves and future generations.

OUR BRANDS

Farm grown chickens are healthier and happier because they are able to move around freely and behave naturally. This results in better quality meat that is more flavorful and has a firmer texture.
